DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-11 are presented for examination on the merits.

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on August 18, 2009, has been entered.

Response to Arguments

The arguments were deemed persuasive over the previously applied art and based on a new search additional art has been discovered not previously of record.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000.

Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over newly cited Wilson (USP 6312492), cited on enclosed PTO-892 Form.

Claims 1-9 are drawn to a soil amendment composition comprising a hydratable keratin hydrogel precursor associated with one or more cationic species of which can be one or more metal ion species selected from potassium. The hydratable keratin comprises sulfonate groups and keratin is derived from skin, hair and feathers, etc.

Wilson teaches a soil amendment composition comprising a hydratable keratin hydrogel precursor, note col. 1, lines 55-67 and col. 3, lines 1-67 and col. 4, lines 1-20; associated with one or more cationic species of which can be one or more metal ion species selected from potassium, note col. 3, lines 29-30. Keratin is derived from skin and feathers, note col. 2, lines 5-6.

The claims are identical to the teachings of Wilson and are considered to be anticipated by the reference. A hydratable keratin comprising sulfonate groups and keratin derived from hair is considered to be inherent to the teachings of Wilson because the disclosed keratinous material is oxidized and furthermore, the hair would be present on the skin layers and in the animal bedding, noted col. 2, lines 18-25. The materials are absorbent materials as disclosed by the reference, note col. 1, line 11. Hence the dried protein containing particles disclosed by Wilson would have inherently swelled upon contact with water forming a hydrogel.

However, in the alternative that there is a difference between the claims and Wilson then such difference is considered to be so slight as to render the claims prima facie obvious. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the claimed invention was made to form a keratin hydrogel to use as a soil amendment because the identical keratin precursor material is disclosed by the reference and formulated the same way as disclosed by Applicants Example 1, at page 12, of the instantly filed specification. The material of Wilson is also oxidized and exposed to heat over time. Clearly one of skill would have at least been motivated by Wilson to formulate the claimed composition. The claims are alternatively rendered prima facie obvious over Wilson.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 10-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wilson, discussed above, in view of USP 5836390, also newly cited.

Claims are further drawn to a composition comprising a tetraalkylammonium hydroxide.

Wilson is discussed above.

USP '390 teaches at col. 22, lines 53 and 56, a composition comprising tetraalkylammonium hydroxide.

The claims differ from Wilson in that the tetraalkylammonium hydroxide is not disclosed.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide for the composition of Wilson the tetraalkylammonium hydroxide disclosed by USP '390 because of the stabilization properties of the compound. Clearly one of skill would have been motivated to use the compound in a soil amendment composition as a stabilizer or as a preservative to preserve the composition for use in the soil. The claims are clearly disclosed by the cited references and one of skill would have expected successful results for the combination as disclosed by the cited prior art. The claims are rendered prima facie obvious over the cited prior art.

All claims fail to be patentably distinguishable over the state of the art discussed above and cited on the enclosed PTO-892 and/or PTO-1449. Therefore, the claims are properly rejected.

The remaining references listed on the previously enclosed PTO-892 and/or PTO-1449 are cited to further show the state of the art.

No claims are allowed.
